Write your observations here:

The new plan proposes pedestrian improvements to the Kilquade road from its junction with the Kilcoole Road to its junction with Huntsbury (road leading to the church and garden centre) which will make the road safer and slow traffic on that section of the road but no proposed improvements to the section of Kilquade road running past kilquade hill estate to the Woodstock Road. I feel this is would be hugh lost opportunity to make our section of this road safer to all road users.

There is a large population within kilquade hill estate , a lot of them elderly, being cut off from society because of the lack of safe walking access to kilcoole. Walking on that section of the road is a death trap. Someone will be killed there.
